Colleagues,

I am pleased to announce that the online writing lab is now available for student use. It is an instructional site that gives students access to lab schedules, videos, reading, and downloadable guides on various English-related subjects. The lab will continue to develop with more material during the semester. For now, please do not take a look and direct students to test the site as well. It is just another step that we are meeting the needs of students and fulfilling our accreditation requirements. More is on the way.
